THE CHAMBERLIN FAMILY

ORIGIN

The Chamberlins are of English origin — pure Anglo-Saxon.

The name was derived from the position they originally held in the Houses of the Nobility.

They were keepers of the Chambers.

Later it was applied to a high office of the Court.

And the present Chamberlin of London is a receiver of public money.

The Lord Chamberlin of England is the Sixth Officer of the Crown.

He waits upon the Sovereign on the day of Coronation.

He has the responsibility of providing all supplies for the Palace and for the House of Lords, and has charge of many other matters varying in different reigns during the session of Parliament.

Under him are the gentlemen ushers of the Black Rod and other Officers.

A449768

There are many Privy Counselors by the name of Chamberlin, both in ancient history and today.

This Office is a dignified and important one.

It is a council of state, appointed by the Sovereign, and its proceedings are not made public.

A Privy Counselor is chosen for life, subject to the Sovereign will.

Originally the number chosen was twelve. Now the number is two hundred and ninety.

There are many Chamberlins amongst the nobility. There are Marynises and Barons and many other titles

The ancestor, from which this branch of the family sprang, was Henry Chamberlin, of Hingham, England, Norfolk Co., which he left in 1638 to escape religious persecution. The family, with other families from Hingham (including the ancestors of Abraham Lincoln), settled in Massachusetts and called the town Hingham, after the town they had left.

Henry Chamberlin's widowed mother came with him. Her name was Christian.

Also came with him his wife and children. His wife's name was Jane. The children were born in England. The record of the birth of three are found in England. They are Daniel and Mary, born May 15, 1632. Daniel died May 19, 1632. Mary died May 25, 1632. John baptized November 15, 1633. He had children older than these, but their birth records in England have not been found.

Henry Chamberlin came to America in the ship Diligent in 1638. His birth and death dates are given in the report of the Chamberlin Association for the years 1906-1907, page 52. And preceding and following data.

Henry Chamberlin, 1596-1674.

(Early Community Marriages, book 7, page 112. Colchester and Westchester Records.)

William Chamberlin moved to Winchester in 1783. Died January 6, 1821. Age 86. Mary, his wife, died December 25, 1820. Age 87.

William Chamberlin, Jr., married Joanna Skinner, daughter of Noah Skinner, of Westchester, May 4, 1780.

Will Chamberlin lived near his father in Winchester.

(Early Community Marriage, book 7, Colchester and Westchester Church Records.)

This William Chamderlin migrated to Hudson, O., in 1809, occupying a log house on the Old Mill Road (or Stow and Aurora Road). He negotiated for the best 1,700 acres of land in Summit County in exchange for his Connecticut property, and got the tract bordered on the west by the Cleveland-Akron road, now called Broadway, and by the Old Mill Road on the east. On the north by the Township line between Twinsburg and Hudson and on the south by the cross-road called Chamberlin Road, or (Forbush and Middleton Road).

William Chamberlin, Jr., born October 25, 1735.

Joanna Skinner, born—. Died 1845.

There are many by the name in the revolutionary history.

There's a Bible in the possession of Harmon Chamberlin, son of Zina, that came to him (Zina) from his father, Horace Chamberlin, and has been bequeathed to the eldest son, from old English times.

This Bible was brought from England by Henry Chamberlin, the Emigrant, in 1780.

It was published in London in 1746, and has been in the family ever since.

History of the Chamberlin Family, descendants of William Chamberlin, Jr., and Joanna Skinner, who migrated to Hudson in 1809.

Ashael, born August 13, 1775.

Joanna Skinner Chamberlin died in 1845 and William Chamberlin, Jr., her husdand, married a woman in Elyria, trading the Hudson property for farm property in Elyria. So that for a time John Mills owned the place, from 1847 to 1867, when it was purchased by Harris B. Chamberlin, son of Amos and grandson of William. And so these ancestral acres returned to the family, and are now owned by Henry E. Ellsworth, great-great-great grandson of the William Chamberlin, Jr., original owner.

Harris Chamberlin bought and paid for this farm in three years. He bought it in 1862 and cancelled the mortgage in 1865.

Amos Chamberlin, son of William, Jr., who came to Hudson in 1809, was born July 24, 1798. Married Jerusha Crane and died in Hudson, O., April 14, 1861, aged 65. And was eulogized in these words: "He has contributed a large share towards the improvement of this township for the last fifty years. He was a man of the strictest honesty and of unswerving integrity."
